

My son Luke (age 6) attended the Academy (now i-kick) for only a brief training session in the summer of 2003 but his experience left a lasting impression on my mind. The coaches were full of enthusiasm, very obliging, organized and above all very child centered. In the few times I observed, there was a conscious effort to include everyone and it was not only the exceptional players who dominated the ball. There was not one session that my son wanted to miss.
